OverviewThe short answer to this question is, No one can answer that except the two of you. However, if this question is being asked in your relationship here are some things to consider. Since the question above may be vague, a more appropriate question might be, Are we ever going to be happy? Happiness is rather subjective, yet in my years of experience and in marriage, I believe there are some consistent themes in happily married couples besides the obvious (fidelity, no abuse, healthy sex life, c
