OverviewInspectingTheUnexpected is my private residential real estate Internet library. My mission is to provide helpful residential real estate information to home owners, prospective home owners, and people providing services to the residential real estate market here in Alabama. I've got documents, graphics, and links as well as my own list of personal referrals. I hope you will find what you're looking for, or at least something useful. If you don't, contact me; I might have it in my library of f
